Mike: Hello, and welcome to Day talk. OK, people sometimes say that students don't work very hard at school now. Helen, our first caller, has a son in Year 9. What do you think?

Helen: Hello, Mike. No, that's totally wrong. I've got my son's timetable here. His first class is at nine o'clock and he finishes at quarter to four. That's a long day.

Mike: When does he have lunch?

Helen: At midday. From twelve to one.

Mike: Right, so what else does he do at school?

Helen: Well, for example on Monday he has two Maths classes – one class starts at 9.40 and then there's Maths again just after lunch. And after that they have History ...

Mike: What about languages? Does your son study any languages?

Helen: Yes, well, English of course – English is his first lesson on Monday. And he also has a Spanish class before lunch.

Mike: Uh-huh.

Helen: And then the last two classes at the end of the day are ICT and Science. I think that's a lot of work for one day!

Mike: Well, thanks for that, Helen, and thanks for your call. Our next caller is John and he's a professor at Warwick University.

Unit 2, Exercise 5d

Narrator: Unit 2, Exercise 5d. Listen and check.

Friend: Yeah?
Julie: Yeah, we drove up on Friday night and got back late on Sunday.
Friend: Fantastic. Where did you stay? Were you near the sea?
Julie: No, we were in a village called Longmead. It's about 80 kilometres from the sea.
Friend: What was it like?
Julie: Nice. There was a river, and there were hills all around the village. And when you walked down the road, you came to a lake. It was great there, really beautiful.
Friend: Did you go swimming?
Julie: No, the water was freezing.
Friend: So what did you do?
Julie: Well, in the mornings we went horse riding.
Friend: Really? You rode a horse?
Julie: Yeah! It was great! And after lunch on Saturday, we went out on the lake in a boat.
Friend: Were there lots of other people there?
