Thanks and acknowledgements

We would like to thank language students and teachers on training courses at Pilgrims, Canterbury, UK, in Cambridge, UK and in Izmir, Turkey, for having helped us try out and develop the ideas in this book.

We also owe a debt of gratitude to the teachers whom Cambridge University Press invited to pilot parts of the book. This gave us a perspective from outside our own narrow experience.

Thanks go to Penny Ur, our series editor, who tightened the book up and helped us to make it more relevant to secondary school classes of 50 students. She kept reminding us to think beyond our own classes.

We would like to thank John Morgan who pulled the manuscript into shape and implemented or modified Penny's editorial recommendations. He gave the authors support at a time when we needed it. Thank you, John. We would also like to thank Jenny Daniels, not only for her word-processing skills but also for her valuable input and encouragement. Finally, we would like to thank Lola Rinvoluti for re-keying the whole manuscript.

The authors and publishers are grateful to the authors, publishers and others who have given permission for the use of copyright material identified in the text. It has not been possible to trace the sources of all material used and in such cases the publishers would welcome information from copyright owners.
