

Contents

Abbreviations	x
Acknowledgements	xiv
Series Editors' note	xvi
1 An overview of the influences on English language testing in the United Kingdom 1913–2012	1
Cyril J Weir
Introduction	1
The Certificate of Proficiency in English (CPE) 1913: A hybrid creation from legacies of the past	14
1921–70: The oral–structural–situational era	25
The issue of scoring validity 1913–1970: Different gods, different mountain tops	50
1971–2012: The communicative era	66
2 The measurement of reading ability 1913–2012	103
Cyril J Weir
Introduction	103
Reading aloud and reading silently	104
Reading tests in the 20th century	109
Examining reading: An analysis of Cambridge English Reading test tasks 1913–2012	112
Present day constructs	172
3 The measurement of writing ability 1913–2012	180
Cyril J Weir
Introduction: Direct versus indirect tests of writing	180
From spoken to written tests in the 19th century	182
The teaching and testing of writing in the United Kingdom in the 19th century	185
The nature of English language writing tests in the 20th century	189
Scoring validity in the United Kingdom: The marking of writing in the late 19th and 20th centuries	195
Scoring validity at Cambridge: The marking of writing 1913–2012	205

Measured Constructs

Examining writing: An analysis of Cambridge English Writing tasks 1913–2012	215
Present day constructs	248
4 The measurement of speaking ability 1913–2012	257
Ivana Vidaković and Evelina D Galaczi
Introduction	257
Tests with no speaking component	259
Indirect speaking test formats	262
Direct speaking test formats	263
Paired and group speaking tests: Towards a more interactional approach	274
Semi-direct speaking test formats	279
Examining speaking: An analysis of Cambridge English Speaking tasks 1913–2012	284
Context and cognitive task demands	293
Present day constructs	316
Scoring validity parameters: Assessment criteria and scales, marking standards and examiner standardisation	324
5 The measurement of listening ability 1913–2012	347
Cyril J Weir and Ivana Vidaković
Listening: The neglected language skill	347
Listening tests in the 20th century	350
Dictation: listening as language transcription	350
Objective methods for testing listening at the decoding level	355
Towards meaning construction: The communicative era	360
Examining listening: An analysis of Cambridge English Listening test tasks 1913–2012	366
A framework for listening test task analysis	366
Dictation in CPE and LCE: 1913–1974	372
The Preliminary Test in English (1945): An early test of listening	380
Listening in the LCE: 1970–1974	382
FCE and CPE Listening: 1975–1983	394
The 1984 revisions to FCE and CPE Listening	401
CAE (1991–)	410
Present day constructs	414

	Contents
6 Conclusions and recommendations	420
Cyril J Weir
A 100-year journey	420
2012: Construct validity in contemporary Cambridge ESOL examinations	426
Appendices
Appendix A CPE 1913, LCE 1939 and CAE 1991 papers	445
Appendix B Case study: A quantitative analysis of the context validity of the CPE reading passages used in translation tasks (1913–88), summary tasks (1930–2010) and comprehension question (MCQ/SAQ) tasks (1940–2010)	472
Cyril J Weir
Appendix C Some problems of oral examinations in modern languages: An experimental approach based on the Cambridge Examinations in English for Foreign Students	538
J O Roach (1945a)
Appendix D Listening Comprehension papers and tapescripts	584
References	595
Author index	639
Subject index	647