Thanks and acknowledgements

This book is the result of the collaboration of Griff Griffiths and Kathy Keohane. Our on-going professional alliance, and the decision to work together to create a book of personalization activities, owe much to the enthusiasm for our ideas by the language teachers we worked with at the Berzsenyi Daniel College, Szombathely, Hungary. The activities in this book were further developed after we had stopped working with those teachers, and the finished product is the result of our own creativity combined with the influence of others; we have acknowledged them individually in the activities where appropriate.

We would like to thank Seth Lindstromberg for his initial encouragement of our ideas, Alison Sharpe for commissioning this book, Jane Clifford for her support, and Penny Ur for her outstanding editorial guidance.

The authors and publishers are grateful to the authors, publishers and others who have given their permission for the use of copyright information identified in the text. While every endeavour has been made, it has not been possible to identify the sources of all material used and in such cases the publishers would welcome information from copyright sources.

The authors would also like to thank Antony Seldon for the illustrations which appear throughout the book.
