Thanks

We'd like to say a big 'Thank You' to everyone who helped us, made comments and suggestions, and who encouraged us while we were working on this project:

Will Capel, our editor, started the ball rolling and kept the project moving along. His critical comments encouraged us to incorporate innumerable improvements.

Alison Silver guided the project smoothly, efficiently and cheerfully towards its publication. Her eye for detail, good humour, encouragement and thoroughness enhanced the book enormously. Working with her was, as always, a delight.

Amanda Ogden devoted great care and attention to researching the photographs and obtaining permission for us to use the copyright materials.

Ruth Carim for her eagle-eyed proof-reading.

Nick Newton and Randell Harris designed the book with good taste and flair.

Martin Williamson produced the recordings and the engineer was Jerry Peal at Studio AVP.

The actors who participated in the recording sessions.

All the teachers who gave us feedback on the First Edition – and contributed their own suggestions and ideas for improvements. In particular, thanks to:
