

FIGURE 9.7. Thickness ( $T$ ) versus distance from source (square root of isopach area,  $A$ ) for pyroclastic fall deposits. From Orton (1996). Straight-line segments indicate exponential thinning, and change in slope represents transition from deposition from the convective region to deposition from the umbrella region.