

Figure 5.8. The relation between the $\delta^{18}\text{O}$ of molecular O_2 and the O_2 concentration in the Pacific Ocean. Numbers indicate water column depth in meters. As the oxygen concentration is consumed by respiration the stable isotope ratio becomes progressively heavier because of the kinetic fractionation that accompanies this process. Reproduced from Kroopnick and Craig (1976).