

Figure 2.8 Schematic map of the global ridge crest showing active hydrothermal vents that have been discovered (dark circles) and those that are known to exist because of characteristic signals in the overlying water column (dark triangles). From German and Von Damm (2003).