

A Map
of the hitherto explored COUNTRY,
Contiguous to PORT JACKSON:

Laid down from Actual Survey.

CAERMARTHEN

MOUNTAINS

Saddle Hill

Round Hill

All this Country appears from Mount Twiss to be an inglorious Desert.

Mount Twiss 14 Decr 1789.

All this Country as far as the eye can reach from every high Hill bears the most abject barren appearance which can well be imagined, nothing to be seen but ridge beyond ridge of Mountains covered with Trees & in many places with Rocks without a single visible morsel of plain or cultivable Land.

The Country in this direction the same as above

Country here the same as above

Rocky insatiable Country as seen from Knopf Hill

Knight Hill 29 Augt 89.
Augt 30 1789. A river called the Country obs 33. 30 S. 150 E. May 20 1790 Deep course Sandon Richmond Hill 29 Augt 89. Miserable Country
Sandy & rocky sandy & rocky Country Mons 624 Augt 90. still the Land uninhabited brushy
Camping place Lake of muddy Water about 3000 feet wide Land still more almost entirely overgrown with floods
Sandy the opposite Bank the same
Sand Caponary Fort
Augt 26 1790 June & December 1790 frequent marks of the Native
Augt 26 1790 A great part of this tract probably good Bad country very bad country better country
Bad Country Frequently overflowed
Poor Country Country worse
Tolerable good Country Country tolerable frequent Roads of but Stony & apparently very barren Land the same Natives hunting Huts
In floods the water rises to the height of 50 feet perpendicular leaving Roads by the River About 200 acres of Land for Cultivation
Land mostly & poor
3d Augt 90 Pyramid Hill
Land mostly & poor

Rough Mountainous Country like that in the way to Caermarthen Mountains

