

A detailed botanical illustration of a tree branch, likely a poplar, featuring several long, drooping catkins. The catkins are covered in small, red, bead-like structures, possibly representing stamens or developing seeds. The leaves are large, green, and have a serrated or lobed margin. The branch itself is brown and woody. The entire illustration is framed by a thin black border.

The Trees
of Great Britain
& Ireland

BY
Henry John Elwes, F.R.S.
AND
Augustine Henry, M.A.

VOLUME VI

Edinburgh: Privately Printed

MCMXII