

FIGURE 13.72. Examples of the quantitative 2D alluvial-architecture model of Bridge and Leeder (1979), showing the effects on alluvial architecture of varying channel-belt width, (A) and (B), and tectonic tilting (C). Channel belts are stippled blocks and lines are floodplain surfaces at the time of avulsion.