

Reflect and Apply (8.2.2)

Learning Analytics

Research has shown that monitoring students' learning is an essential component of effective instruction. If you were the teacher of a BLL course delivered on an LMS, how would you determine who has been active in the online component of the course, what students did, and when they did it? After you answer these questions, determine to what extent this information is useful to teachers, students, program managers, and administrators.