

FIGURE 13.4. Long profiles of the Rhine and Sun Kosi Rivers. The Rhine profile has the typical concave-upward shape, with local undulations associated with tributary confluences. The Sun Kosi profile has a marked convex-upward and steep section associated with the thrust zone that separates the Himalayas from the Indo-Gangetic plain.