

Figure 8.3. Stable carbon isotope compositions of different biochemical components found in marine plankton (from Degens, 1969). Biochemically-based heterogeneity can be observed in the general trend from proteins to carbohydrates to lipids to become more depleted in  $^{13}\text{C}$ , with total organic carbon representing an average of these contributions.