

Figure 7.7. A schematic illustration demonstrating the relation between dissolved ^{234}U and its daughter ^{230}Th in the ocean. Uranium is dissolved in the water, but thorium is quantitatively adsorbed to particles and removed to the sediments. At secular equilibrium the integrated activity of excess ^{230}Th should equal the depth-integrated activity of ^{234}U on the overlying water.