

Figure 12.18. Schematic diagram of locations of metal diagenesis in the ocean. The principal categories of oxic diagenesis occur in deep-sea clays (A) and hydrothermal iron oxide plumes. Anoxic diagenesis occurs in sediments overlain by oxic water in near-shore sediments (B) and sediments overlain by anoxic waters in anoxic basins (C).

